INTRODUCTION

Power The Fight was launched in 2019 in response to the UK's rapid increase in serious violence affecting young people and its disproportionate impact on vulnerable and minority communities. Power The Fight recognises this increase in violence as an urgent but complex public health crisis with multiple and inter-related causative factors including racial injustice, trauma, lack of early intervention, reduction in statutory services and social inequality, all of which have been or will be exacerbated by the social and economic impacts of Covid-19 (with a disproportionate impact on Black and minority ethnic communities). We promote and advocate for the mobilisation of communities to address these systemic issues, which we deliver via several distinct programmes:

- Specialised training
- Developing free online resources such as our PowerTalks
- Engaging with local and national government bodies
- Supporting a small number of bereaved families with short-term financial gifts and signposting for housing, debt management and counselling support

Power The Fight promotes the voices of vulnerable and minority communities by acting as the conduit between families impacted by violence affecting young people and decision and policy makers, to create co-designed and co-produced responses to violence and its causative factors. We work to dismantle the structures which disproportionately impact the most vulnerable in society, and to challenge the misconception that violence affecting young people is simply an issue of race, while simultaneously wrestling with the reasons why in some parts of the UK, violence does disproportionately take the lives of people from Black and minority ethnic backgrounds – particularly in London. This means we intentionally examine institutions such as the police, education, health and criminal justice systems through a racial lens, to address current race inequalities and unconscious biases in these organisations.

In 2020 we launched a research report called Therapeutic Intervention for Peace \(TIP\), focused on developing culturally competent therapeutic services for families and peers affected by traumatic loss through youth violence. The research was supported by the Mayor of London's Violence Reduction Unit in recognition of the lack of appropriate provision currently offered in the aftermath of incidents, and the impact of this gap on individuals and communities from racial minority backgrounds.

Across our programmes, Power The Fight aims to develop replicable, evidenced models which can be scaled up to involve a wide range of partners across the UK, with the ultimate objective of empowering individuals and communities to end, and heal from, violence. We seek to address immediate needs whilst working with the authorities and building networks of diverse partnerships in order to catalyse systemic change. Power The Fight was given a London Faith and Belief Community Awards in 2019 under the 'Peace and Reconciliation' category.

Whilst we have organisational links with the Christian church, Power The Fight works compassionately and with commitment to people of all faiths and none. Power The Fight is a member of the Contextual Safeguarding Network based at the University of Bedfordshire, and partners with other Network members including Abianda to deliver training and design community interventions.

This role focuses on therapeutic youth work in one or more secondary schools in South East London.

THERAPEUTIC INTERVENTION FOR PEACE (TIP) PILOT IN LONDON BOROUGH OF LEWISHAM AND GREENWICH SCHOOLS

Power The Fight plans to partner with multiple London boroughs over three years to deliver TIP as a pilot programme comprising several services which will contribute towards decreasing rates of youth violence. We recognise that the Covid-19 crisis has exacerbated the pre-existing vulnerabilities which contribute to the likelihood of violence, making our work even more urgent.

Power The Fight aims to show the effectiveness of a culturally sensitive, co-designed therapeutic service on the mental health of Black and minority ethnic communities, its potential for indirect social and economic benefits, and the possibility to interrupt cycles of youth violence, in order to evidence a model which can be adopted across the UK.

The TIP report was launched in September 2020 and Power The Fight's first small pilot therapeutic service began in Autumn 2020 at a secondary school in Lewisham, South East London, building on the report's recommendations. It was then expanded to two further schools in January 2021, one being an alternative provision centre in Lewisham and Greenwich.

This role will work across one or more schools / alternative provision centres to implement the TIP model, promote cultural sensitivity and systemic change as recommended in the TIP Report, and support those aged 11-16 who would benefit from additional support to improve their mental health.

The contract is for 12 months initially with the possibility of extension if additional funding is secured. We are also open to a secondment arrangement with a partner organization.

PURPOSE OF THE ROLE

Across one or more secondary schools:

To sensitively and compassionately lead the provision of support for young people at risk of involvement in youth violence, forming trusting relationships which will form the conduit through
